Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 21, 22, and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by DE 197 53 766 A1. The cited patent shows in figure 1, a tubular barrel having an inner surface, a stopper slidably received in the tubular barrel and having a portion in slidable engagement with the inner surface of the tubular barrel, and a lubricant disposed over a limited area of at least one portion of the inner surface of the tubular barrel, the inner surface portion having an axial length greater than an axial length of the stopper.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 24-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DE 197 53 766 A1 in view of Okuda, et al., and Tischlinger. The German Patent does not disclose a (1) lubricant provided on a portion of the outer surface that is less than an axial length of the stopper, (2) lubricant on the annular rib of the stopper, (3) the syringe being manufactured using glass, (4) plastic, and (5) the lubricant comprising of silicone.

Okuda, et al., shows in figures 3 and 4, a lubricant located between the inner wall of the barrel and roughly equal in size to the stopper (figure 3). Figure 6 shows an embodiment where the lubricant extends axially a distance less than the axial length of the stopper, and figures 4 and 5 show a lubricant located on the ribs of the stoppers. Concerning items (3), (4), and (5) above, Tischlinger demonstrates the conventionality of manufacturing syringes using glass and plastic, and using silicone as a lubricant.

Based on the above observations, for a person of ordinary skill in the art, modifying the structure disclosed by the German Patent with enhancements (1)-(5) would have been considered obvious in view of the teachings of Okuda, et al., and Tischlinger. Conclusively, such enhancement would have been considered obvious design alternatives.
